Mollies are NOT gentle peaceful fish. This is a misconception that other fish owners and petshops promote. Mollies will become aggressive towards each other in tanks esp the males towards females and chase them to breed non stop. These aren't my pictures, the easiest way to tell male from female is the gonopodium. In the anal fins, the one in the back will be pointed and sticking backwards in males and the females will be open. Information about Mollies, including Black Mollys from AquariumFish.net, a retail Tropical Fish store, where you can shop online for mollies, Poecilia latipinna,.
